Park School

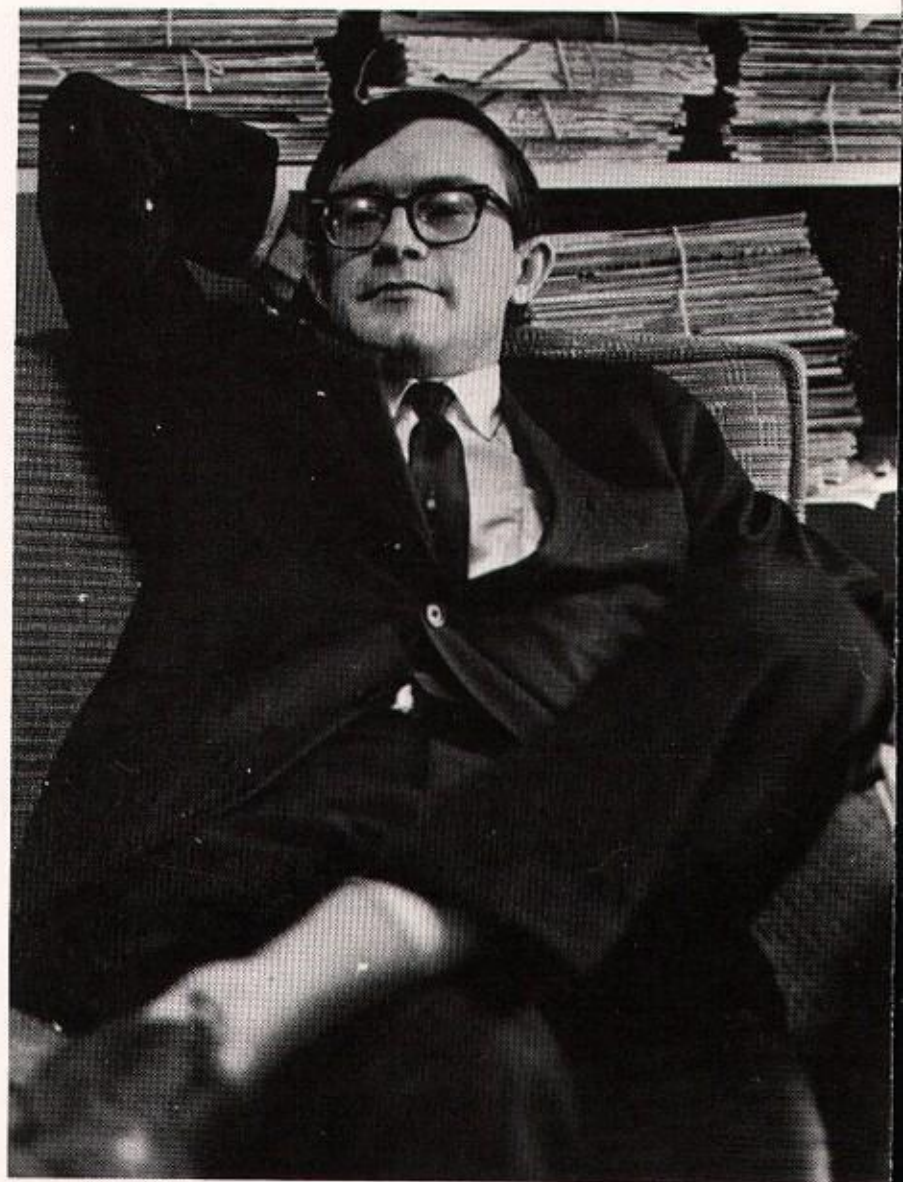

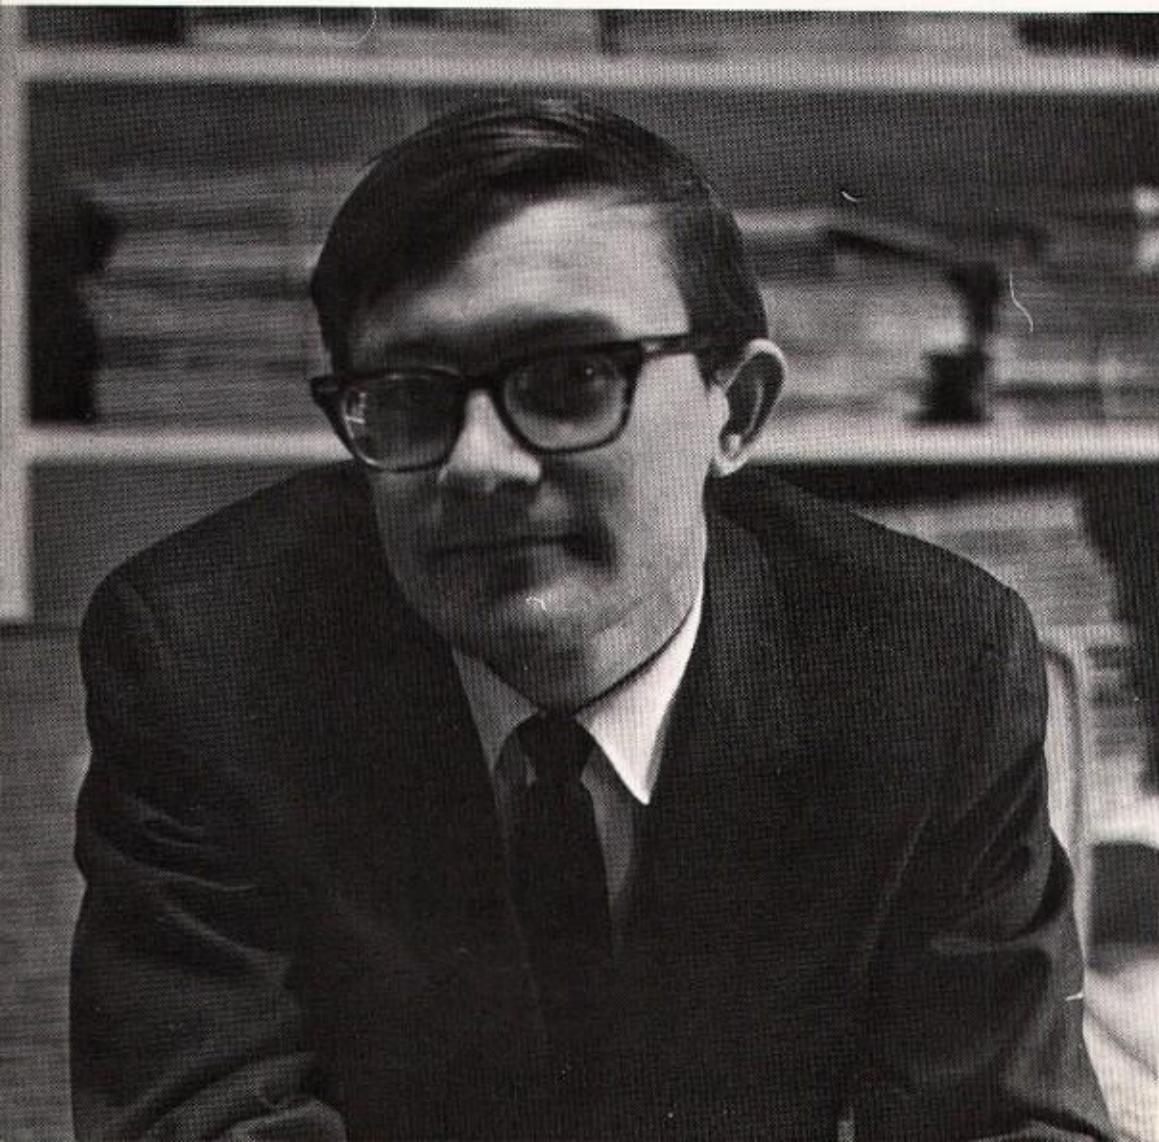

Dedication

He has taught us the value of concern and to seek the best in everything. Always caring, he is there when we need someone to help us with problems of any kind.

In his first year at Park we were sophomores and under his patient teaching we absorbed the magic of geometry. As juniors we were forever going to his workshop for advice in the dilemmas of trigonometry. Now as seniors we consider him to be one of our best friends. From water fights to last minute cramming; from computer room to financial committee meetings he has guided us toward the future.

To this man, Mr. Robert J. Stalder, we, the senior class of 1969, dedicate our Spark.

It is easy enough to say that Park School people should support the school's events, however, few actually do. Mr. J. H. Kellog Clarke is present at almost every Park function which range from early morning hockey games and rainy soccer games to assemblies and plays. The entire school owes him a great deal and we, the senior class, wish to pay tribute to and thank him for his loyalty to our school.

Tribute

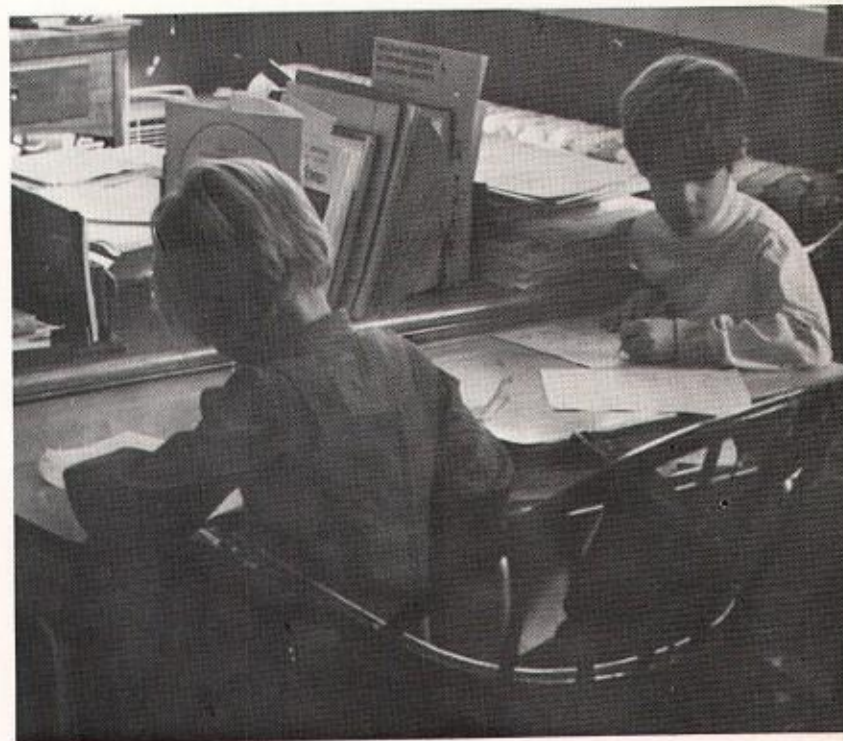

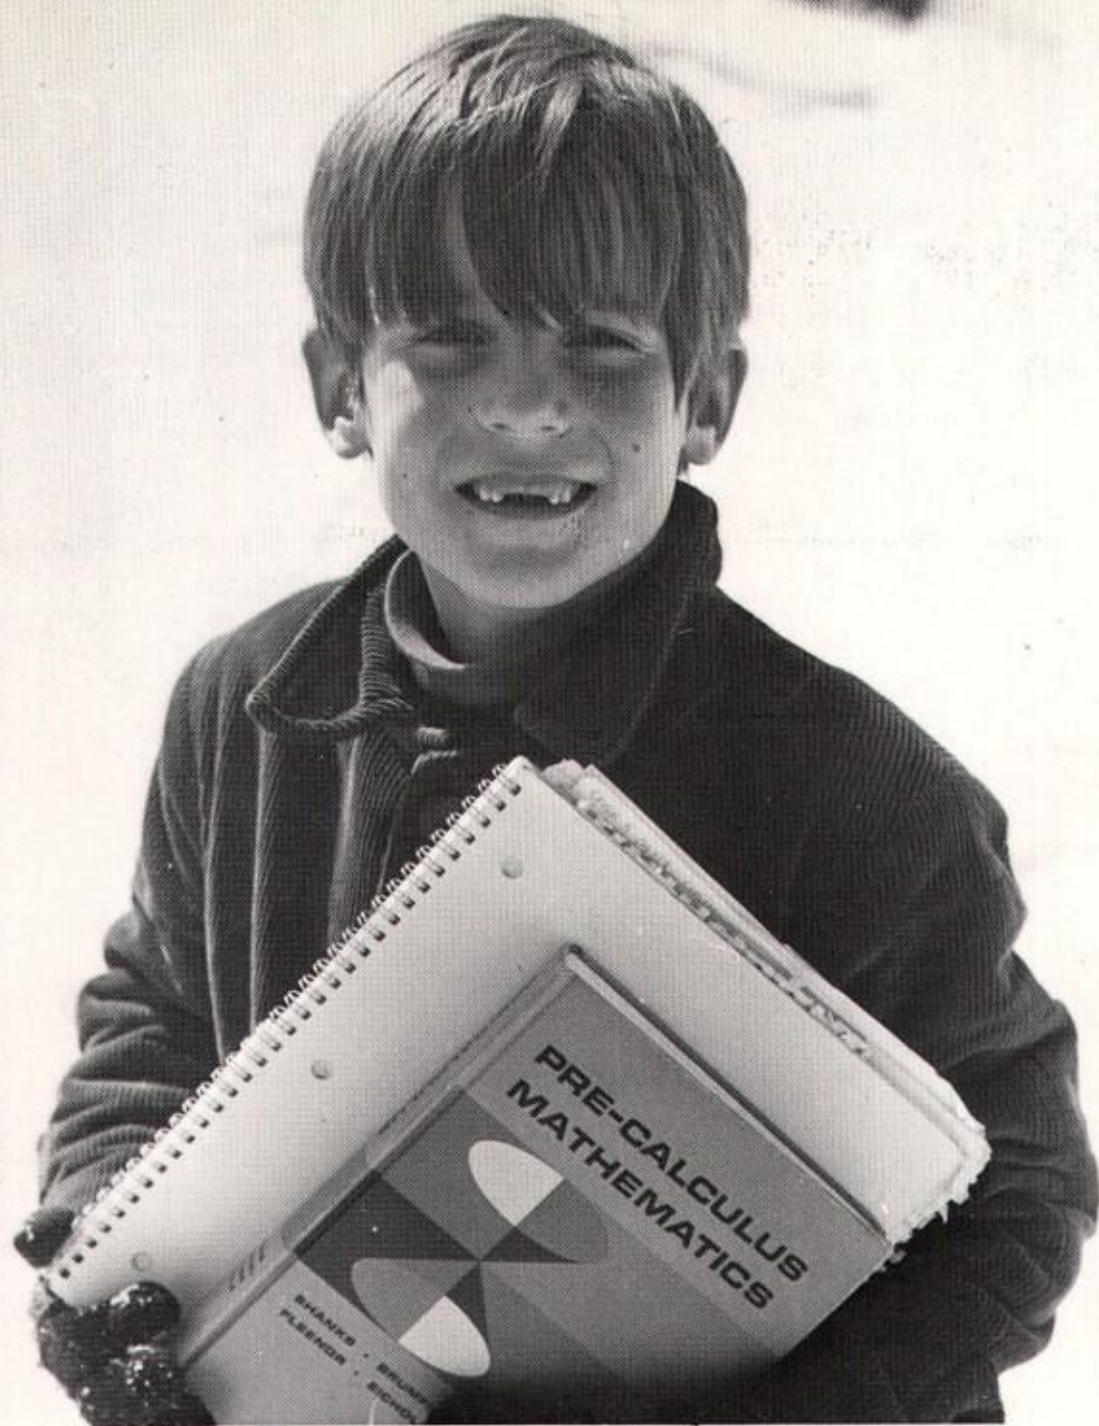

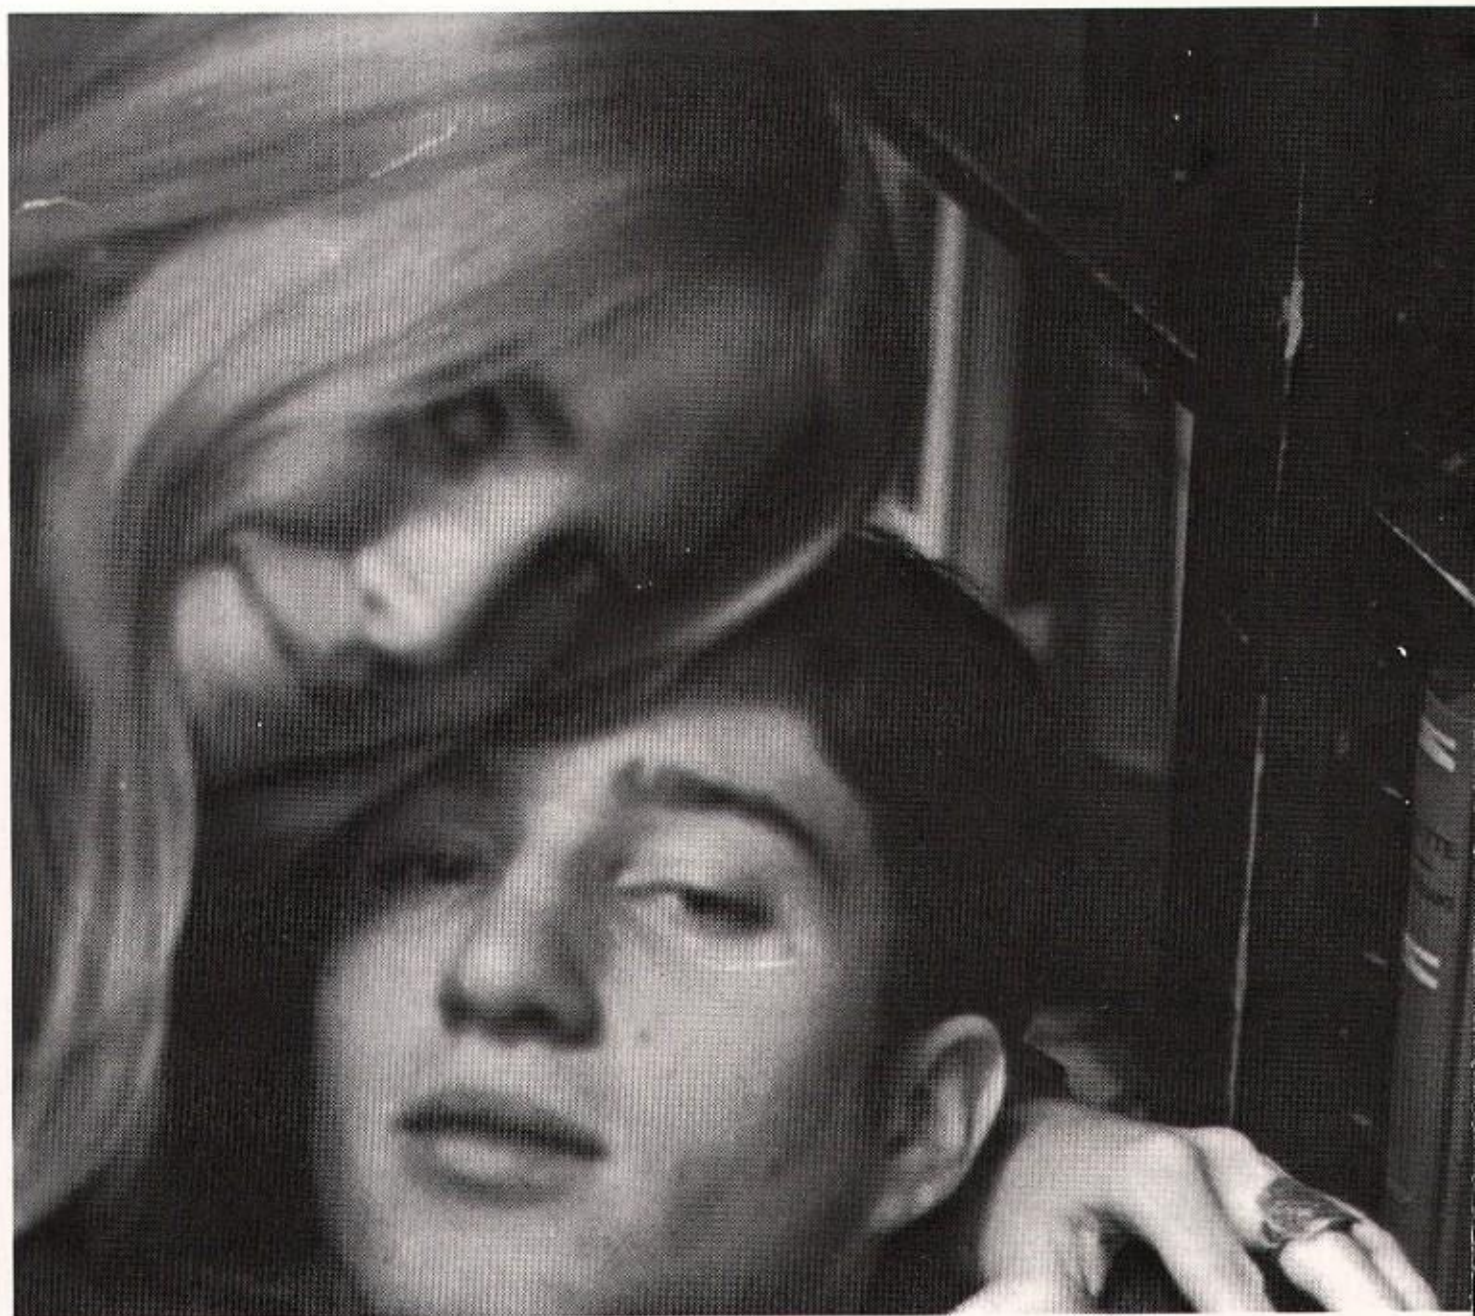

The library is our favorite meeting place. Sometimes we go to study, but more often to talk about school affairs and everything else concerning the world. The senior class of 1969 wishes to pay tribute to Mrs. Camlin for all her patience and understanding with the students both in and out of her library.

What's a computer time-sharing terminal doing at Park School?

or Nichols, or SUNY at Buffalo, or the Universities of Rochester and Syracuse . . . or Notre Dame

It's making it easy for students of physics, math, finance, business, chemistry and engineering to discover how simple it is to use a giant computer to help solve their problems. And, at the same time, learn how easy it will be to apply their computer time-sharing experience to virtually any chosen career.

Each of these schools uses Graphic Controls Time-Sharing service. For a listing of other applications and further details about GC Time-Sharing, just write: Computer Systems Division, Graphic Controls Corporation, 189 Van Rensselaer Street, Buffalo, New York 14210
